Rebecca Head Trautmann

Curator, Vantage Point: The Contemporary Native Art Collection

Rebecca Head Trautmann is the curator for “Vantage Point: The Contemporary Native Art Collection” The exhibition is on view in Washington, D.C. from Sept. 25 through Aug. 7, 2011. Trautmann is an art historian who did her graduate work at the University of New Mexico, with a focus on modern and contemporary Native American art. In 2003, she joined the Smithsonian’s National Museum of the American Indian, where she serves as curatorial researcher working with the modern and contemporary art collection and exhibitions.